

One of my priorities is helping to create job and economic opportunities in our region. I have placed links on my Congressional website to various government job websites at <http://lindasanchez.house.gov/jobs>. And, to help young people explore careers, I have created many internships, including paid ones, in my local and Washington, DC offices. Interested students can contact my local office. If you don't have Internet access, please call my local office, and we'll be happy to get you that information in another way.

FEDERAL JOB LINKS

USA JOBS

The official site for current federal jobs and employment information where users can search for jobs and

Student Jobs

Student Jobs is for students interested in federal employment opportunities.

Cal Jobs

State of California Official Website for Employment Opportunities.

California Employment Development Department

Official website for the California Employment Development Department.

California Career Resource Network

CalCRN is part of a nationwide program called the America's Career Resource Network (ACRN) which

California State Personnel Board

Official website for the California State Personnel Board.